WASHINGTON FACT AND GOSSIP

The November public debt statement shows a reduction of seven ... during the month.

The Secretary of War has issued an order that hereafter ... will be charged against the pay of any enlisted man who shall ... through ... the Sharps or Remington pattern.

Erroneous statements having been made ... the action of the Secretary of the Treasury in refusing to cash warrants for the Pacific railroad companies the Secretary to-day caused the following to be made public: "The question whether the Treasury Department can reserve ... interest due from railroads ... bonds have been granted the entire amount payable for mails and transportation has been submitted by the Secretary of the Treasury to the Attorney General. Pending a decision of that question payments to railroads for ... service are delayed at the Treasury."

From a Washington dispatch of the 24th ult we take this: It is somewhat noticeable that such members of Congress as have yet arrived here and have expressed themselves as to the action of the President in holding up the McGarrahan case so long as it was before Congress have spoken very decidedly in praise of the impartiality of the President's course. Naturally members of Congress resent an interference by any of the Departments with a matter under their consideration but the fairness and safety of the President's course is so manifest that their approval is both natural and positive.

The maps of the campaigns of the armies of the James and the Potomac with the exception of the battle field of Gettysburg are completed and ready for distribution. The map of the battle field of Gettysburg is in preparation under the direction of Major G. K. Warren of the corps of engineers. Maps of the campaigns of the western armies are being prepared by Colonel ... Ruger late of the United States volunteers. The map showing the first epoch of the Atlanta campaign embracing the country as far south as the Oostenaula river is finished. The map embracing the country between the Oostenaula and ... is well advanced. The map ... of ... is begun and the entire series will be completed it is expected by the ... June 1871.

A new and seemingly a very commendable suggestion is receiving a partial trial in regard to the furnishing of committee and other rooms in the Capitol. Heretofore they have been fully carpeted. The flooring of all these rooms is of beautiful imported mosaic tiling, and covering it with a carpet is in a manner like attempting to ornament a marble building by painting. The only excuse for putting down a carpet on such a flooring would be to protect the feet from cold, but when Congress is in session the Capitol is constantly heated and it is impossible for the floors to be cold or uncomfortably cold. Mr. French the Sergeant at Arms of the Senate with the ... of the Committee on Printing is ... some large and elegant rugs for the ... which he has placed under the tables and before the fire grate leaving the rest of the floor uncovered. The effect is very clear. The room looks much neater and has an appearance of substantialness about it ... very large and fine rugs are to be placed in the retiring room of the Senate known as the Marble room and no carpet will be put down there. Visitors to that magnificent room will no longer be ... by the ... of a carpet suggesting a ... wooden floor ... Besides the improvement of taste displayed, the new arrangement ... will save a large annual outlay for carpets.

Legislative Honors and Profits.

(From the Oregon State ...)

During the ... of the Republican ascendency in Oregon positions ... in the legislature in either House, were ... exceedingly unprofitable and it was with difficulty that men of suitable ... could be found who would undertake ... duties with the certain knowledge ... exercising the highest degree ... their private expenditures ... from the State would ... their actual expenses during the session.

Legislative honors were possible, but legislative profits were not ... sound and unpretending ... minority ... It was reserved for ... the ... elected members ... the infallible "Bed Rock" ... of this county in the essentially Democratic ... of 1870 to dissipate this ... tion, and show the people that a position in the legislature may be made even more profitable than honorable.

That the late Democratic legislature was rank with corruption cannot be denied. We have ... testimony in regard to the corruption of Burnett and Wells from this county, and although this charge was made by ... on the stand over two weeks ago they ... resting as easy under the imputation, as if their standing in the Democratic party alone were enough to place them above suspicion of bribery and corruption.

Did they not vote for every ... job ... and did they not also vote for the expulsion of every Republican whose seat was contested by his Democratic competitor ... his majority before the people ... And ... its happy possessors got two ... dollars ... more than their regular mileage and per diem?

And now at this day comes the Oregon Herald more fierce and vindictive than ever in its attacks on Mr. J. D. Fay since his public exposure of the corrupt means employed by the Kelly ring to secure to its candidate the ... nomination.

Fay first humiliated the Herald and Col. Kelly by pledging him fast to his own hand writing to support the Williams amendment and now he adds a still further cause of grief to that ring by showing ... that money as well as pledges were freely ... to secure Kelly's nomination. ... Burnett and Wells ... nomination in the ... All this hidden corruption is now leaking out in this family ... between Fay and the Herald and shows ... that there is ... such thing as honesty or patriotism in the Democratic party.

If the people of this State have any interest ... for ... their reputation abroad they must ... without the ... of these gentlemen ... of ... with the ... of public offices.

Of the fifty four million dollars of additional currency authorized by the act of Congress passed in July last, only four millions has been asked for although at the time it was asserted that the whole amount would speedily be called for by the West and South.

Another example of English "civilization." A man living in ... Freetown, England, after due announcement, put up his wife for sale at auction, the two becoming mutually tired of each other. The woman fetched ... and was knocked down to a neighbor for whom she had shown some partiality.

It is said that the Union Pacific Railroad Company has under consideration plans for the irrigation of its immense land grants along the Platte and Laramie rivers. Hundreds of thousands of acres can no doubt, be reclaimed and made good agricultural lands to become half a century hence the support of a population of millions.

The Postmaster General will not recommend in his annual report the purchase of telegraph lines in order to establish the postal telegraph system throughout this country. While in favor of such a scheme he does not believe the time has yet come to put it into practice without an annual expense of several millions of dollars to the Government.

A relic of the captivity of the First Napoleon has just died at Chelsea Hospital in England, in the person of a pensioner of that institution named George Daley. He had charge of the signal station on the island of St. Helena during the time the Emperor was confined there, his duties being to signal to the authorities whenever the Emperor left or returned to his headquarters.

At Brooklyn Navy Yard the splendid old frigate ... a second rate, is being torn to pieces, with a view of altering her into a broadside iron clad as it is thought our navy ought to have one broadside armored vessel at least. This is an experiment as yet and it is not known what sort of craft she will become when her plating is on. It is to be hoped that the result will prove satisfactory.

The following are the statistics of the patent office. During the year ending September 30, 1870 there were filed in the patent office 13,411 applications for patents, including re-issues and designs; 3,424 caveats and 160 applications for extensions of patents. There were issued 13,122 patents including re-issues and designs; 101 extended, and 1,089 allowed but not issued by reason of non payment of the final fees.

The annual report of the Post Office Department makes a strong appeal for the repeal of the Franking Privilege, and statistics are cited to show that with its repeal letter postage throughout the country can be reduced from three to two cents per half ounce. The postal service continues to improve. The receipts are larger than ever before and the expenses are smaller when considering the many new routes established.

The proposed Pacific cable to connect San Francisco with China is not such a myth after all for the new company have proceeded so far as to ask for proposals for the manufacture of a telegraphic cable to be finished in eighteen months. The laying of such a cable will necessitate the construction of a line from Hong Kong to Ceylon via Singapore, which, with the overland line now in use via Tartary to St. Petersburg, will make ample communication for ... around the world.

Nearly two columns of the New York Herald, in fine type set solid are taken up with the contents of a wonderful newspaper prepared by a correspondent in Paris. He had cut all the news columns of the Paris journals of November 1, had pasted them together, and then photographed them reducing what filled seven columns of print to a space scarcely more than an inch and a half square. This he then forwarded by balloon mail and although to the unassisted eye its contents were undecipherable by the aid of a very powerful magnifying glass and a strong light it could be read.

It runs thus: Mr. Samuel Kimball of Patten ... an ... tree ... the woods ... cut into it ... that it was not ... and he had hardly time to get to the end of the log before he saw an old she bear just coming out. He gave her a blow on the head with his axe and was about pulling her out when he was surprised to see two large cubs just back of their mother. He pulled the old one out and was dispatching the cubs when out jumped another old bear, which before Mr. Kimball could finish the cubs made good his escape.

If Popes were what they once were he would now be fleeing into the Appennines for refuge from the concentrated enmity of all Christians and cutting his bare feet with thorns on his way to the Vatican there to beg the Holy Father to lash him with a whip of scorpions, confiscate his kingdom and forgive him on condition of his being a ... monk. POLITICAL NOTES

New Jersey Democrats think the idea of a thorough reorganization of their party in that State a good one.

According to the Toledo Blade, Andrew Johnson is neither a Republican nor a Democrat, but simply a Johnson man.

Raphael Semmes, whom the Mobile Register ... calls "Admiral," has withdrawn as Democratic candidate for Mayor of Mobile, his candidacy, as he says having caused some difference of opinion among his friends as to its expediency.

The Trenton Gazette says that Congressman elect Forker of that State, assured his hearers in the course of a speech in that city during the campaign that he was in favor of protection to home industry. Mr. Forker was the Democratic candidate.

It is a remarkable fact that the best and greatest papers all over the country incline to Republicanism. What does this prove? Simply that the intelligence of the country inclines to the Republican side. The Democracy have few enough votes but they have many more votes than readers.

The Dayton Journal denies the published statement that General Schenck has written a letter to an official in Washington saying that he had no intention of contesting the seat of Colonel Campbell in Congress and that the decision of the Supreme Court of Ohio against the voting of soldiers in the hospital at Dayton would probably be sustained on an appeal.

We have the vote for Congressmen in some of the districts of Missouri. The Fifth District, nearly complete gives Bard, Republican, 9,678; Smith, Liberal, 8,570; Dale, Independent Democrat 2 0... In the Sixth District, Comingo, Democrat has 12,837, and Smith, Republican, 8,... In the Seventh, Parker, Republican, has 1 117 and Ellis, Liberal 11 2... In the Eighth, Blair, Liberal has 17,683 and Hayward, Republican 7,23... In the Ninth, King, Democrat, has 10,500; Dyer, Liberal, 3,812 and Draper, Republican, 3,...

From a Washington dispatch to the New York Times we take the subjoined: To the list of Democratic Protectionists now troubling the new party of the revenue reformers should be added Alexander Mitchell of the First Wisconsin District, successor to Gen Paine. His election was openly urged by Democratic workmen in Milwaukee, because he was for high tariff, as against Lyon, the Republican candidate who sympathized with revenue reform. As to John Rogers, Democratic member elect from the Sixteenth New York District there is no doubt about him. He is a pig iron Democrat and owes large blast furnaces in Clinton county.

WAR MISCELLANY

Since their occupation of Alsace, the Germans have officially introduced their geographical names in the province.

What is called by a Berlin correspondent of the London Times the "hunger typhus" has begun to show itself in the German army before Paris.

Gear and Guterborf the German bankers, who subscribed to the last French loan are to be sentenced to ten years' imprisonment on the ground of giving support to the enemy.

The people of the southern eastern and western districts of France show increasing energy and a resolution to continue the war if a cession of territory is insisted on by the Germans.

The German infantry have been supplied with a new weapon—a small cannon weighing about thirty five pounds. It can be carried by two men and will throw ten shots a minute to the distance of 2,000 paces. Thousands have been distributed among the troops.

A price has been set upon the heads of Napoleon and Bazaine at Montpellier, France, and the Journal des Droits de l'Homme receives subscriptions for the purpose. This paper clearly thinks that Napoleon and Bazaine have "no rights that any Frenchman is bound to respect."

There was recently a wild rumor at Tours that the Russian Government had offered to buy the French fleet in return for an offensive and defensive alliance in certain contingencies. According to the rumor, however, the French Government was not disposed to accede to the proposition.

A French official who was present at the capitulation of Soissons states that while the fighting was going on at that place he saw the regular troops by hundreds throw away their accoutrements and run like scared deer. The same ... spectacle was witnessed at Orleans and elsewhere.

The London Times correspondent at Tours, writing on the 5th instant, sets the Army of the Loire down at 150,000 men with 200 guns. Rigorous discipline is manifested. The slightest offense is punished with death and executions take place daily. The higher grade officers are said to be hostile to the Republic, and generally speaking despondent and the soldiers have little confidence in their chiefs.

PERSONAL NOTES

Senator Revels lectured in Rochester and made a good impression. Ex Congressman Ely introduced him to the audience.

It is stated that Mr. Gladstone will be brought forward ... Baron Rothschild who will probably resign at the next general election as candidate for Parliament for the city of London.

Prince ... "such a cough" as the soldiers before Sebastopol used to call the Russian statesman is showing, after all, neither himself nor the claims of Russia can be sneezed at with impunity. The powers of Europe have come to a long pause owing to the determined attitude of the Russian bear.

James Hopkins is said to be the wealthiest man in Baltimore. He is a Quaker, seventy years old and was never married. He began life poor and is now reputed to be worth $7,000,000. SATURDAY MORNING DECEMBER 10 1870

How the West Side Looks at It

Among the speakers at the railroad celebration at Albany on Thursday was Mr Ben Hayden Speaker of the Lower House of the Oregon Legislature His address was brief but as showing the state of feeling on the west side in regard to railroad matters it was notable and excited much comment The following is a fair report of the substance and spirit of the speech

People of Albany I have heretofore frequently addressed you on political topics, but I am not here now to make a political speech, nor in fact to make a speech at all. But I congratulate you of the east side that you have got a railroad There was a controversy between you and us of the west side for the first land grant You got it, we think unjustly and have secured a railroad upon it I am glad you have a railroad But we want one as much as you do Our side of the river is as good as yours We have as much and as good land as you have, but a railroad on the east side does not benefit us of the west side any more than if your railroad were in Delaware or Connecticut. At the recent session of the Legislature I supported a measure which would have secured to us a railroad We passed it but the powers that be saw fit to veto it I shall not dwell on this subject longer now, but may speak much of it hereafter.

All that we of the west side ask of you of the east side is this: When we are in a fair way to get a railroad do you let us alone. You know that our side of the river is every way equal to yours. Yet by reason of this railroad land here is worth from twenty to forty dollars an acre, while just as good land on our side is worth only ten to twenty. We might have had a certain prospect of getting a road immediately had it not been for a veto And now we ask you of the east side, who have obtained a road to let us alone when we try to get one and within two years we may still accomplish it

We cannot doubt that Mr Hayden in these remarks indicated the sentiments of the people of his county, and indeed of the west side counties generally, without distinction of party. That blow at the prospects of the west side road which was given by the Governor when he vetoed the act alluded to cannot but be generally understood as an injury to the west side counties, and the people will hold Gov Grover responsible for it The empty and untenable excuse that his constitutional obligations compelled him to veto this bill though he had just approved a bill to give a large subsidy to the "lock and dam swindle," will not satisfy west side people. It could not be more absurd if the Governor, after approving the act to plunder the school fund for the benefit of the lock company, had set up a plea that it would be unconstitutional to grant aid to the wagon road which the Dalles people wanted The fact is this act was vetoed because the contract to be made under it for the building of the west side road was to be made with a man who is not a member of the clique that controls the Governor. There are men in Portland who could have secured the Executive's approval of the act, and who would have done it, had it suited their purposes

An Immigration Convention.

Last month, as readers of the telegraphic dispatches were informed, an "Immigration Convention" at which delegates were present from many States, was held at Indianapolis The principal object of the Convention was to consider the abuses practiced upon foreign immigrants at New York, and to suggest a remedy. The Tammany Ring now collects a tax of $2 per head from every foreigner arriving at New York city. This has become a great perquisite of Tammany, it having grown until it amounts to nearly a million dollars annually. The offices under the immigration board are considered among the most lucrative (comparatively) offices in the city The Chicago Tribune says of these extortions upon immigrants:

If, in consideration of this enormous tax, there were anything done to aid, or relieve, or protect the immigrants, there might be urged a plausible pretext for it, but there is nothing of the kind done. The Castle Garden commission is an addition to the robbery of the immigrants It is a part of the railroad system of Jim Fisk It helps to keep up his harem, his opera house and his regiment. It compels the immigrant to pay the tax, and to submit to his extortions An emigrant leaving Ireland or Germany pays a certain sum for his passage from the place of embarkation to Chicago. Included in that passage money is the profit of the steamship company, the $2 tax paid to the city of New York, the exactions of the railroad company, and the fees, amounting to $6 more, for the agents and runners at both ends of the line. Now if this business were taken in hand by the United States, under reciprocal treaties with foreign governments, these persons would procure their passage tickets in Europe without costs for fees or commissions, they would be protected in the matter of food and accommodations, and against personal outrage on board ship, and, on their arrival in New York, would be protected against robbery, and forwarded directly to their destination, without having their scanty means taken from them by railroad and Tammany thieves.

The Indianapolis Convention recommended that Congress should take the matter in hand and abolish this whole system of extortion. Now that the matter has been brought forward so prominently, Congress will doubtless act upon it Beyond question, however we shall hear from the Democratic press vituperative denunciations of this "new encroachment on State rights by the centralizing Radical powers at Washington "

"Unexpended balances," a term which is used in recent telegraphic reports of the estimates of the Treasury Department, may require a definition. During several years the amounts necessary to be expended have been considerably overestimated by the heads of some of the Departments In some instances appropriations were made by Congress in accordance with these estimates The balances not expended have lain from year to year in the hands of the Departments Up to last year the sums so accumulated amounted to $85,000,000 Congress at that time passed a law directing that these amounts, called "unexpended balances" be returned into the Treasury Had they not been returned the amount to be appropriated this year would not be so large but either way it comes to be the same thing

The monthly statement of the public debt issued on the 1st inst., shows a reduction during November of $7 000,000 This single fact is sufficient to outweigh all the clap-traps of the Democratic opposition against the Administration for a whole campaign The Republican party goes forward steadily reducing taxation, steadily reducing the debt and improving the finances at home and abroad Against such a beneficial policy as this what do the negatives and empty generalities of the opposition amount to?

One of the fruits of the "Democratic victory in North Carolina is the election of ex Gov. Vance to the United States Senate which took place a few days ago Vance is the man who, as Governor of North Carolina, did more than any other person to plunge that State into secession and rebellion His disabilities under the Fourteenth Amendment have not been removed and probably will not be North Carolina in consequence will not have the "benefit" of his services in the Senate.

The Census and the New Apportionment

A careful examination of the returns of the new census indicates that under the new ratio of representation to population it is supposed that the House of Representatives will consist as now of 243 members the New England States will lose five or six Congressmen New York it is computed will lose three and Pennsylvania and New Jersey will gain one each Ohio will probably lose two, Indiana will retain her present number Illinois will gain two Michigan Wisconsin Iowa Kansas and Minnesota will gain one each California will have three as now Kentucky will lose one member South Carolina will gain and Louisiana will lose one The other Southern States will remain without change

These changes will have some effect upon the electoral votes in the next Presidential election Republicans will lose the six votes in New England two in Ohio and one in Louisiana They will balance these losses by a gain of one in Pennsylvania, one in New Jersey, two in Illinois and one in each of the States of Michigan, Wisconsin Iowa Minnesota Kansas and South Carolina, making their gains exceed their losses by one vote Democrats will lose three in New York and one in Kentucky and are not likely to gain anywhere The new apportionment will therefore give the Republicans an advantage of several votes, notwithstanding the losses they will suffer in the New England States

A San Francisco paper (the Chronicle) affirms that Gov Haight of California will positively not be a candidate for re election We deeply regret this decision How Oregon is to do without his directions and advice we are sure we don't know It will be a calamity indeed when the nominal Governor of this State can no longer receive his orders from Gov Haight of California

The Sacramento Union says the Republicans have elected six out of thirteen candidates on the Nevada State ticket—Treasurer, Controller, Secretary of State, Surveyor General Superintendent of Public Instruction and Clerk of the Supreme Court—and will have a majority in both branches of the Legislature

OREGON

Jacob Comegys, who lived in Oregon from 1847 to 1859, died on the 28th of November at San Jose (Cal), in the seventy fifth year of his age

An effort will be made to clear the Santiam river of obstructions, so that it may be navigated as far as Lebanon and bring the products of "The Forks" to a market

The Oregon City paper says that all the boats of the P. T Co are now employed and have all the freight they can carry. The Company have six boats running on the upper river

A man arrived in Salem on Thursday who came that day from the Dalles This is the first instance of the kind that the Statesman has heard of, though since the railroad was built it may have happened before

The Oregon City Enterprise says that Mr Holladay telegraphed up the line last Wednesday that all freight which would be sent on Thursday by the railroad destined for San Francisco, will be shipped to its destination free of charge

The Statesman says that at the meeting of the People's Transportation Company, the following officers were elected to serve the ensuing term For President, A A McCully , Vice President E N Cooke , Secretary, T McF Patton

THE TERRITORIES

Since the 1st of September, H P Isaacs, of Boise City, has filled and sold 13,000 sacks of flour, the product of Boise Valley

The Boise Statesman reports that an immense and profitable business has been done by the tradesmen of that place during the last three months, and it seems to increase rather than diminish

The Collector of Customs at Puget Sound has been instructed by the Treasury Department to place at the service of the gentlemen composing the N P R R party the revenue cutter Lincoln, in which they will make a trip around the Sound, visiting the various points of interest, and take a look at the different rival terminus sites.

It is said the Kaw Indians have turned railroads to an economical account. They salt the tracks, and thus entice the buffalo and other game in front of the trains, to which the animals fall victims When the trains pass over the animals, the Indians gather up the carcasses, which they thus secure without the expenditure of ammunition A very economical arrangement for Lo, and coming withal, but not always safe for the trains We guess, however, the story is not much truer than some others that are told on the plains

From the Port Townsend Message Capt Gebsen of the North German bark Galatea informs us that he brought letters, drafts and government dispatches from Nicolaivsky, at the mouth of the Amoor river, to be forwarded to St Petersburg He also brought private letters from merchants to be forwarded to Bremen These were all mailed in the Port Townsend post office Duplicates were sent overland via Moscow The bark was twenty eight days from Nicolaivsky to Port Townsend, and allowing twelve days for the mail to go from here to New York , and twenty days from New York to St Petersburg, would make sixty days from Nicolaivsky to St Petersburg via Puget Sound, while at this season of the year the overland route via Moscow will take ninety days, although when the winter sets in, and the journey is performed by sledges, the time occupied will be about sixty five days

THE RAILROAD EXCURSION

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED BY THE EXCURSIONISTS

On Thursday evening, during the return of the excursionists from Albany, a Committee selected to prepare resolutions to commemorate the great event of the opening of the first one hundred miles of railroad in Oregon reported the following, a copy of which is handed us for publication

WHEREAS The building of a railway from Portland into the heart of the Wallamet valley is an achievement whose importance to the future of Oregon cannot be overestimated therefore

Resolved That we congratulate the people of the Wallamet valley and of the whole State on the rapid progress of a great work, the beneficial results of which are already apparent, and which is destined to grow and expand into a railway system that will embrace and include the whole of Oregon and finally bring all parts of the State into easy and rapid communication with each other, and open the way for railway connections with all parts of our country

Resolved, That we recognize in this achievement and in the vastly improved prospects of Oregon under the auspicious opening of the railway era, the energy and enterprise of Mr Holladay who with a sagacious view of the great future of Oregon and with a faith in the prosperous development and coming greatness of our State, has taken the lead in a vast work which more than anything or all things else, is tending to make the State known abroad, and to establish prosperity within its borders, and we accept what he has already done and what he is now doing, as an earnest of still greater results to be accomplished through his energy and enterprising efforts

Resolved, That these resolutions be offered to the daily papers of Portland for publication

FUNERAL BOOT AND SHOE MANUFACTORY.—Yesterday Messrs Protzman Corson and Gillihan formally opened their Boot and Shoe Manufactory at the corner of Taylor and Front streets the ceremonies of the occasion being a christening champagne lunch toasts responses, and a general felicitation of the proprietors by numerous friends who dropped in to participate in the festivities or to take a look through the establishment

This is an enterprise of much greater magnitude than most persons would be led to believe by the bare announcement above and as it certainly is one of great importance to the State it deserves more than a brief passing notice At present the machinery which it is intended to employ has not all arrived and consequently the force of laborers is not near as large as it will be within the month There are now twenty two workmen employed but within the next two weeks and immediately upon the receipt of the balance of the machinery the force will be increased to fifty men, women and boys which will be the average as now contemplated for the first year A very large proportion of all the work when the factory shall finally be in complete running order will be performed with machinery The company have or will soon have all the modern appliances used in the most successful manufactories at the east so that fifty workmen will be able to turn out an amount of work in any given time which would require the labor of several hundred working by hand The work of making a pair of boots or shoes is performed by a considerable number of persons each having his or her especial part to do Briefly the hands which a pair of boots for instance goes through may be described as follows 1 The cutter who has a given size given him cuts from a pattern the vamps backs etc 2 The vamps or fronts are then passed to the crimper who passes them through a machine thence to crimping boards to bring them to the right shape 3 Back to the cutter who trims and shapes them 4 The first stitcher then takes the parts and puts in the fine or fancy stitching a Singer or Howe machine being used 5 The paster then takes them and pastes the parts together and adds the stays when any are required 6 Another stitcher sews on the straps and counters etc 7 The siding up then follows—the work being done with a New England Wax Thread machine as rapidly almost as ordinary cloth sewing 8 The next process is rubbing down the seams and turning the legs —the latter by machinery 9 The uppers next go to the bottomers who work in teams or gangs of four The first lasts and tacks on the sole in pegged work, the second drives the nails and tacks on the heel the third is the trimmer who pares the soles and heels to shape and fourth, the finisher who blacks and polishes the soles 10 The boots being made, pass to the treer who stretches and puts them in shape for packing In sewed work the process varies only in the work done by the teams—the soles being tacked on by one man and the sewing being done by hand by another Shoes are made by nearly similar processes At the close, instead of being treed, they are "dressed" or "gummed"

An expert with the New England Wax Thread Stitcher will seam up from 10 to 18 dozen pairs per day The average earnings in a factory like this, are about $20 per week to each of the fifty making a total of $1 000 per week Each four men will average fourteen pairs of boots daily or one hundred and seventy five pairs for the whole force—the value of which is about $927 In a shop of fifty operatives, about ten men women and children, will work at women's and children s shoes making an average of five dozen pairs per day valued at $24 per dozen. The cost of stock is about equal to the cost of labor with one third added, where, as in this factory, the material is all French brands and mostly of the very finest and best quality The investment then here is not less than about $155 000 per year in material and labor, to say nothing of incidental outlays The home payments of the factory for a year will reach about $60 000 The firm will undertake at present only the manufacture of the superior grades of work the stock used being from the quality of French kip up to the very finest and most costly fancy French material, and the make to correspond

And now having as briefly as we well could do ... noticed the general processes in this factory and the purposes of its conductors we take pleasure in commending this enterprising firm to the trade and the public partly because they are genial and worthy young men but chiefly because the enterprise in which they have engaged is one of that class of which our young State stands greatly in need—a home manufactory for home consumption This manufactory will not only furnish employment at remunerative prices for fifty workmen, but its bearings upon the prosperity of the city and State may be traced very much further than that one fact The enterprise being new the number of workmen, with the families belonging to their care, is practically that many added to our population They aid all classes of dealers and producers, by becoming new consumers Their employment enables another man, or a number of men in the State to carry on the business of making leather which also widens the field in which labor seeks its reward But one of the chief effects is in the employment at home of the capital involved in all the business connections and relations of the factory and its people. The amount of money annually sent out of the State for its boots and shoes alone is enormous The figures would almost appal if they were fully set out. Take out of circulation the amount which this house alone will expend in one year at home and the effect upon financial matters all round would be very appreciable affecting all branches of business alike As heretofore that amount of money has been annually sent away to purchase what this firm will now make Now add the amount to our circulation and the effect is as appreciable as in the first supposition while instead of being hurtful it is wholly advantageous to the entire business community We take it that whosoever understands the true interests of the country, will welcome the advent of this and all similar enterprises and will do and say whatever he can to secure their entire success For most certainly, the full development of the State demands a greater diversity of industries as much as it needs a multiplication of population and the great outflow of money for necessary articles of consumption should be checked and made to benefit our home artisans The Pioneer Boot and Shoe Manufactory, we trust is but the fore runner of a dozen or a hundred of similar establishments in our State to come quickly

MRS WIMBUSH'S REVENGE

[illegible] Mrs Marrables! So young too—only [illegible] and thirty and very little the worse for wear, with the bloom of youth still on her cheeks. Spiteful people who aged [illegible] were in the habit of saying that Mrs Marrables' bloom was like the manna of the Israelites [illegible] every morning, but this was malice; [illegible] gray blue eyes, a small boned woman with a downy skin and a figure just plump and no more, which would wear for ever without spreading to obesity or crinkling up into wrinkles. She had a daughter of eighteen, by name Matilda, less young in proportion to her years than herself. It is [illegible] affectation to say that the two women would pass anywhere for sisters. Mrs Marrables as the elder by at most four or five years. A stranger would really be incredulous as to the relationship between them being that of mother and daughter. Such a mistake when it is made in favor of a woman who is old and looks it is said to be not unpleasant to the omnivorous appetite for flattery developed in some of the sex by advancing years; but to Mrs Marrables it was most embarrassing. She was not old, she did not look it, and the explanation involved made the stranger suspect her of being older than she really was. But for this, Mrs. Marrables might have married long before. She was never invited out without her daughter, and whenever any eligible gentleman began to pay her the slightest attention some dear friend or other would be certain to whisper, "That is Matilda's mother," and of course there was an end of it.

It must not be concealed, that mother and daughter did not "hit it" very well together. Mrs Marrables resented her daughter's very existence; while Matilda could not but be sensible that having so youthful a mother [illegible]. It was plain to Mrs. Marrables that, in order to her own success in life, her daughter must be got rid of. People who arrive at such a determination in novels, too often resort to crime to remove a person from their path. But Mrs. Marrables went to Church twice every Sunday. At last she married Matilda out of her way to one Mr. Wimbush, a most respectable retired corn merchant of Highgate. Poor Mrs. Marrables! How basely did Matilda return her kindness. Twelve months after her marriage, everybody read in the Times "The wife of Jethro Wimbush, Esq, of a daughter." This was too much. A grandmother at thirty-six! A youthful singing waltzing grandmother, whose very youthfulness, taken in conjunction with a not unnatural desire to get married again, became a reproach in the eyes of all right-thinking people.

"My dear, she is a grandmother," women would say to one another, "and how deceitful of her it is to look so young."

"Carries three generations remarkably well," said the men; "but you know, old fellow, she must be jolly old."

CHAPTER II

Seventeen years passed away and still Mrs. Marrables, to the scandal of everybody, was as young as ever, or nearly so, to all appearance, and as single as ever. In years she was fifty three, and of course ought to have dressed for her part. But her whole manners, feeling and appearance, were in ludicrous defiance of her years, and seemed palpably to refuse them. Had she done anything wicked in her youth, people whispered, and was it a punishment? Was she a Wandering Jewess? How could she wear flaxen hair and a chignon at her time of life? It was indecent, improper, scandalous! She might at least take to caps, with a gray front, and cork-screw ringlets, and a piece of narrow black velvet across her forhead, for the sake of decorum. Then look at the way she dressed! Always in the fashion, streaming up the church aisles on Sunday, settling her silks and laces and ribbons like a girl. As for her complexion, I heard one lady say, "Bless you, it isn't paint, and it can't be enamel. I've tried both, and know how little wear there is in either. The woman is petrified, or else embalmed. I'm sure of it for she uses nothing but violet powder."

Mrs. Marrables, or, as she was commonly called, Mrs Evergreen, was not even engaged. There seemed a settled conviction in the minds of eligible suitors that, since a man may not marry his own grandmother the golden rule of "Do unto others" ought to forbid them from marrying other people's grandmothers. Besides, what a horrible thing it was that the woman would not grow old! It must be wicked, if 'twas real.

Mrs. Marrables never forgave Matilda for making her a grandmother. But Matilda did not repeat the offense. Mr. Wimbush died, leaving his widow a respectable maintenance for herself and child. The child Carry Wimbush, had put short dresses to shame when she was twelve. She ran up like a scarlet-runner. She ran right through by express from childhood to womanhood, without stopping at the intermediate station of Girldom. At seventeen she was a grown woman of mature experience, who had given up flirting for love, along with her other playthings, and was ready calmly to discuss an offer of marriage on the basis of its affording a good strategical position in the battle of life.

Here, therefore, we have Mrs. Wimbush, a comely widow, with a daughter somewhat prematurely developed, on the one hand, and with a mother persistently juvenile and evergreen on the other, Mrs Wimbush and her daughter Carry living together in Whitting ton Lodge, Highgate. Mrs Marrables, the youthful and the ungrandmotherly dwelling by herself at Taunton, and devoting her time to collecting subscriptions for different charitable objects, not forgetting her own rents. Mrs. Wimbush seldom corresponded with her mother. They were on the best of terms now, yet, by a sort of tacit understanding, each pursued the even tenor of her way, very rarely interchanging ecstacies by post.

In the Spring of 1869, Mrs Wimbush shut up her house in Highgate, and came with her daughter to Bournemouth, where she hired a villa. Many of her friends were staying at Bournemouth, and, through the assistance of parties and jaunts, and picnics and balls she made a great many more. Among these the Brookshanks must be specially noticed as particularly involved in this brief history.

Old Brookshank (so everybody called him) a cheerful old person on the shady side of sixty, was very rich, but very unpresentable, in the eyes of the rather rigid society of the place. He had made his money by the invention of a patent [illegible], familiar to us all by the name of Brookshank's Infallible Ointment. It brought him no end of money. But although he lived in a grand house in a fashionable watering-place, he was still sole proprietor of the Infallible Ointment, and his London manufactory and depot was yet in full working, with "Brookshank" over the door, and pictures of people with sore limbs all over the windows. All this, society might have winked at—might have admitted him within its doors upon sufferance, and pretended never to wake to the notion of a "stranger present in the gallery." But the worst of old Brookshank was, that not content with living on ointment he talked ointment always, and puffed it everywhere. It was not hypocrisy—the man believed in it heart and soul. He said he had a sacred mission to alleviate the woes of mankind, at thirteen pence halfpenny the box, and he meant it. He believed in all his testimonials—more devoutly than the writers could have done. He was conscientiously of opinion that his ointment was, as he said, "good for every mortal complaint inside or out." He carried bills with him everywhere and distributed them as zealously as though they had been tracts. "Shall I cease," said he, "while a single fellow creature suffers agony that I can cure?" Society could not stand this, for the man would have distributed his bill in every ball room and at every soiree, and never rested till each guest was supplied with a picture of bad legs and a string of testimonials. He believed in his mission as much as Mohammed did. He said he had committed many sins in his life time, but he trusted the good his ointment had done to suffering humanity might be taken into account when they were reckoned up. The ointment was his creed—the ointment his extreme unction.

Brookshank's sister kept his house, a little, faded old maid, who believed in him as much as he did in himself, who would move softly in his presence from a reverent regard for the great healer of the people, who would place his last published testimonials in her hymn book and read them on Sundays with every [illegible] of [illegible] offering up thanks from her simple heart for [illegible] work [illegible].

[illegible] as the ablest surgeon with a [illegible] was among the poor were those people suffering from the effects of the Infallible Ointment, though, of course, he only said so to tease his aunt. His brother Charles was always [illegible] position and good circumstances. Neither was married, people [illegible] they were not marrying men. What [illegible] people make sometimes [illegible].

CHAPTER III

It was [illegible] Mrs Wimbush [illegible] the two [illegible] that the [illegible] plainly marked by something warmer than politeness. Presents of flowers and hothouse fruit found their way [illegible] Mr Tom and Mr Charles to the widow. Of the two Mr Tom was by far the most in earnest. Yet she feared [illegible] either and for some time preserved an attitude of strict neutrality between the rival powers, [illegible] that she was on terms of the closest friendship with each of the belligerents, the fact being that the key of her impartiality was less a matter of sentiment than a desire to ascertain the relative standing of the two brothers in the eyes of their father with regard to future contingencies.

It was not long before she had an opportunity of satisfying herself on this point. The sincere admiration she professed for the Infallible Ointment made old Brookshank's sister her sincere friend for life, and Mrs Wimbush became a visitor at the big house. She soon found that old Brookshank had a bad opinion of his eldest son Tom. Partly jealously of a man who professed the art of healing as derived from books, and expressed skepticism as to the [illegible] of the ointment [illegible] partly distrust of a man who might find out its [illegible] and hold them up to public [illegible] to this bad opinion. Tom was a heretic, and an unbeliever in the Brookshank creed—a scoffer at the last authenticated testimonials and held the Government stamp in open contempt. Charles was not so. Hard man of law though he was he consumed quantities of the ointment or professed to do so, and always said it did him good. Mrs Wimbush would talk ointment by the hour with old Brookshank and consequently became a great favorite, besides getting the credit for being a most discriminating woman. The old man would even go so far as to show her his unpublished testimonials, and produce great bundles of letters in praise of himself and his medicine. These the widow would peruse with an exhibition of rapt interest which was certainly very edifying. Working on the confidence so obtained, she gathered very clearly that the younger son would most likely come in for the largest share of the unguent property. That being satisfactorily ascertained, Mrs Wimbush warmed perceptibly in her manner toward Mr Charles, the lawyer, and froze in the same proportion in the aspect she presented to Mr Tom, the doctor. The result was something of an estrangement between the brothers. Tom felt the treatment but determined to know his fate. He came to the widow's house and, with very little preface made her an offer—plump.

"Really Mr Tom," said Mrs Wimbush, "you entirely surprise me. Surely I can have given you no encouragement to—to hope—that"

"Mrs Wimbush," said Mr Tom, "we are neither of us chickens (the widow winced), although doubtless I am a good deal the older of the two. I am not sentimental nor romantic, so pardon my plain speaking. With regard to encouragement, you have given me quite enough to justify my putting the question—not enough, perhaps to warrant my expecting a favorable answer. The plain question is, will you marry me, Tom Brookshank, M. D., aged forty-two?—a man, though I say it who won't make a bad husband as husbands go."

The widow looked down, and twisted her handkerchief around her fingers, plaiting it in knots upon her lap, but did not reply.

Mr Tom looked into his hat and then out of the window. Then he said: "Pardon me, am I too late? Is their a prior attachment?"

Without venturing a reply in speech, Mrs. Wimbush bowed her head.

Mr Tom slowly gathered together his hat, his stick, and his gloves and went out. "Confound that brother of mine!" said he to himself when he got into the street. "Always supplanting me."

CHAPTER IV

It was a large picnic party. Mr Charles Brookshank had drawn Mrs Wimbush's arm through his own and strolled away from the rest.

"How delightful it would be if one could know the language of birds as folks did in the old Hindu fairy tales! Would it not, Mr Brookshank?"

"My dear Mrs Wimbush, they do nothing the whole day long but make love and cry 'Sweet, sweet! I would I were a bird to make love in music.'"

The widow sighed, but it was more like a puff of pleasure.

"What did I know of love till you came here?" continued Mr Charles. "Absolutely nothing—except," he added with reservation "in a professional way. And then we lawyers generally see the dark side of the picture—the damages and the decrees nisi. But your visit has brightened my whole life. O Mrs Wimbush, you cannot have been blind to my secret! You have seen it written legibly in my face, and have not interposed to check its development. I see you understand me, just as by intuitive fine feeling you can penetrate the meaning of Mendelssohn's songs without words. Mrs Wimbush, you have already far advanced toward learning the birds language. I may rely upon your consent?"

"Charles this happiness is indeed too much," ejaculated the widow.

"You need never be separated from your daughter Carry. A home for one is a home for both and I will cherish her while I live."

"But, Charles dear, she may marry."

"Marry, ma'am? Bless my soul, of course she will! She will marry me!" She has said so don't you see?

Mrs Wimbush never said another word but fell flat down upon the grass.

What on earth has got the woman thought Mr Charles. "She couldn't have taken it worse if I had proposed to murder her daughter."

In their walk they had strayed through the trees close to the outskirts of another picnic party. Mr Charles immediately ran to ask some fair volunteer to come to the assistance of Mrs Wimbush who had fainted. At hearing the name an active mille [illegible] lady sprang up and followed him. It was Mrs Marrables. The sight of her mother brought Mrs Wimbush round quicker than any thing else could have done. She sat up.

"Mother, Mr Brookshank, Mr Brookshank my mother Mrs Marrables." They bowed. "Have the goodness to leave us together Mr Charles." He bowed and obeyed. "Mother," said Mrs Wimbush, "what on earth brought you here? I thought you were at Taunton."

"No dear. I have been at Bournemouth three weeks. I came merely for change. Only last week I heard of your being here and [illegible] called but have been so much occupied and I felt sure of [illegible] somewhere and thought the surprise might be more agreeable. We've had a most delightful picnic with the Mountstewart folks. But what was all this fainting about? One would think Mr Brookshank had been proposing to you."

"He certainly made me a proposal, mother but I was quite unprepared for it, and was overcome."

"What an imaginative girl you must be, Matilda! You make me feel quite young! When will you be old enough to attend to business? You will accept him of course! Well [illegible] please you may reckon on my consent. [illegible] know. But I must get back to my party and perhaps you had better rejoin yours. Ta-ta."

Jilted for her daughter. It wasn't pleasant. When Mrs Wimbush got home she blew up Carry for being so sly.

"Well mamma," said Carry, "of course I thought you knew all about it. I never made any secret of the affair. I know very well that you had rejected Mr Tom but I could not possibly suppose that was not as usual [illegible]. Of course [illegible] having [illegible] give you a wish me [illegible]."

"Well, the old Mrs Wimbush [illegible] money and it will be all in the family that's at last a comfort."

[illegible]

[illegible] the little episode of [illegible] chapter with the [illegible] friends and Tom recovered his spirits and laugh heartily at what [illegible] supposed was his brother's rivalry.

Mrs Wimbush reported her [illegible] rejected Mr Tom [illegible] a salutary lesson on her part [illegible] for the past. She will [illegible] When a widow says so much as that [illegible] I think ware hawk.

Some three weeks after this Mrs Wimbush and Mr Tom Brookshank settled [illegible] at an evening party where [illegible] which was going on was rather [illegible] conversation [illegible] those to whom it was addressed.

"I fear," said the widow all [illegible] absent manner, "I treated you very unkindly Mr Tom. You took me so entirely by surprise that really I hardly know what I said. I have been very unhappy about it—very."

"Forgotten and forgiven," whispered Mr Tom.

"How generous of you you make me so glad because now that your brother Charles is going to marry my daughter we shall be in some sort related, and I could not bear you to think unkindly of me."

"No," said Mr Tom fidgeting a little. "I shall never do that."

"How droll!" said the widow. "Let me see what will the relationship be? You will be my son in law's brother and consequently I shall be your mother in law once removed. You will have a mother younger than yourself, Mr Tom. I hope you will not presume upon her youth to be a bad boy."

"All this is very true," he answered, "but I see the relationship in a far different light. I shall be your father in law, and consequently my own brother's grandfather in law."

"You mistake, Mr Tom. Don't you—that is Carry?"—

"No mistake at all about it ma'am for I've promised to marry your mother Mrs Marrables."

"Monster," cried Mrs Wimbush aloud and went off shrieking.

The music stopped, and there was a great fuss. But above all others was heard the voice of Mrs Marrables. "Don't be alarmed, pray. She is subject to it; she went off just like it the other day at a picnic. For young thing very little upsets her. Let me come to my little girl, then."

They moved her into another room. Presently Mrs Wimbush opened her eyes. "Mother! How dare you come near me. Go away do! You ought to be ashamed of yourself at your time of life!"

"My time of life! Why, I'm only fifty four about ten years older than Tom. How can you talk so to your mother!"

"Mother, if you don't leave the room, I will. It's really disreputable to have you for a mother. You've never done me any credit."

"My dear, I am so glad to think you feel well enough to leave the room that I will remain."

Mrs Wimbush got up and went home.

CHAPTER VI

Jilted first for her daughter and next for her mother! This was too much. Mrs Wimbush went to church as regularly as any one but revenge, after all is very sweet.

Six weeks afterward, Mrs Wimbush recovered sufficient fortitude to go and call on her mother.

"Well, child, I'm glad you are going to be friendly; there is nothing like harmony in a family circle. Let us consider the relationships into which we are about to enter that we may rightly judge of our respective rights and duties. I and my granddaughter are going to marry two brothers—the consequence is, she and I will be sisters in law. But as you are mother to my sister in law, you will nearly be my mother in law, which is a very singular relationship for a daughter to sustain toward her mother especially when she is not the wife of one's father-in-law. Now as"—

"Wait a moment dear mamma. I've news for you. I'm going to marry old Ungu[illegible]. Old Mr Brookshank has asked me to be his wife and I've consented. The consequence is I shall be head of the family and bonafide mother in law to you all. I don't think we need trouble about harmony for we shall be a united family more so than any I know of."

Before her marriage, Mrs Marrables set to work to draw up a table of the relationships involved by the three weddings. It is an extensive work in three volumes, and when our readers see The Brookshank Family advertised they will know what it means.—Chambers' Journal.

DR GIBBON has the pleasure of [illegible]

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousand of persons, both male and female are there who are suffering out a miserable existence in the effects of secret indulgences or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid countenances and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation they linger until death closes the scene. Let parents guardians friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible [illegible] maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon a physician who has made private diseases his special study for years and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted [illegible] who are interested in the welfare of their friends to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness

Seminal Emissions the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms unless combatted by scientific medical measures viz: sallow countenance dark spots under the eyes pain in the head ringing in the ears noise like the rustling of leaves and [illegible] unsteadiness about the loins weakness of the limbs confused vision blunted intellect loss of confidence diffidence in approaching strangers a dislike to form new acquaintance, disposition to shun society loss of memory hectic flushes pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue fetid breath coughs consumption night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained should apply immediately either in person or by letter and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage who are suffering under any of those fearful maladies should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible and will give to each patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr Gibbon stating case symptoms length of time the disease has continued and have medicine promptly forwarded free from damage and curiosity to any part of the country with full and plain directions by inclosing Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter through the Postoffice or through Wells, Fargo & Co a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union.

THE RIVERSIDE HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION

OF

EAST PORTLAND, OREGON,

[illegible] NOW PREPARED TO RECEIVE SUBSCRIPTIONS [illegible]

[illegible] FIVE HUNDRED SHARES [illegible] books were opened and a large [illegible] Shares have been taken.

The following extracts from the Oregonian [illegible] a good idea of the plan and [illegible] the Association the location of the land, etc.

RIVERSIDE HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION.

This association of whose organization we gave an account a few days since, is now ready to dispose of shares. As it is [illegible] organization of that kind in this city, it may be well enough to state what are its purposes, and the manner in which it is proposed to conduct its operations. The purposes of these [illegible] Associations are not at all speculative in the ordinary sense of the word. They are [illegible] for the profits of their investment upon the general advance in the value of their lands [illegible] quent upon the co operation of many individual shareholders—and the advance in value of all surrounding lands by reason of the [illegible] population and demand for room [illegible] still near the city. The Riverside [illegible] Association has a traction over [illegible] twenty acres of land situated [illegible] Brooklyn on the east side of the river, the eastern boundary line being about one mile from the ferry landing at East Portland. The [illegible] in one strip along the Wallamet river, [illegible] in length and another strip along the Oregon and California railroad, half a mile [illegible] strips being connected near [illegible] rows of blocks (with a street [illegible]) whole forming a figure not unlike [illegible]. It is divided into 74 blocks, 200 feet [illegible] streets running at right angles and [illegible] all lots along the river front. The [illegible] ber 600, worth $60 per share. [illegible] a share thus represents nearly a [illegible] vided interest in the 80 fractional lots. [illegible] tional shares are to be sold off at the [illegible] for the benefit of the Association, [illegible] coming in for the proceeds [illegible] number of shares held. When [illegible] taken and the Association [illegible] mine to do it, the choice of [illegible] will be put up at auction [illegible] bidder, the proceeds of such [illegible] the original price of shares [illegible] equally among the whole number [illegible]. Thus, if a person wants a particular [illegible] and is willing to pay $100 or [illegible] or less as the case may be, he [illegible] the lot or block as his individual [illegible] premium being divided among the [illegible] of shareholders. It will be [illegible] everything is co-operative, and [illegible] [illegible]. No man can make a dollar [illegible] out also making a dollar for every other shareholder. There is no chance for [illegible] the property, by some chance, should [illegible] far below the first actual cost [illegible] liable to happen in the [illegible] tract of land must be judged [illegible] but considering the steady [illegible] vance on real estate in this [illegible] hood and at East Portland [illegible] last year or two, it seems hardly [illegible] values to go back.

In the Riverside Association all power [illegible] tions seem to have been taken [illegible] monopolies of shares. No person [illegible] buy more than the number of shares [illegible] three blocks or twenty-four lots [illegible] termining the operations of the [illegible] restricted in the same manner. [illegible] shares may pay down $60 per [illegible] exempt them from all [illegible] pay $15 quarterly with [illegible] share payable with the first [illegible] liable in this latter case to another [illegible] other) assessment of $5 per share. Upon the payment of the shares in full, with the [illegible] as above, the holder is entitled to all [illegible] and his proportion of all the profits of all sources. No officer of the [illegible] any pay for services except the [illegible] gets $20 per month—so it will be [illegible] expenses must be light.

That part of the tract lying along the [illegible] a high plateau, nearly level, about [illegible] above the water. There is no part of the [illegible] row of blocks but commands a fine view of Portland and the river for miles [illegible] stream. That part of the land [illegible] railroad is, every foot of it, [illegible] soil and adapted to gardening [illegible] tiful little stream of pure [illegible] almost the entire length of this [illegible] affording the means of irrigation [illegible] ficent to supply pure water to [illegible] whole tract. There is not a [illegible] lot in the entire tract. Under [illegible] tages it would seem impossible that there should be any chance of loss to shareholders. [illegible] year each shareholder, if he [illegible] perfect title to as many lots as his shares [illegible] represent, or he may continue his interest [illegible] vided with the Association while the [illegible] tion may exist.—Oregonian.

THE RIVERSIDE HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION.

We have been led to make [illegible] fact that the subject of making [illegible] skirts of this city and East Portland, is [illegible] discussed [illegible] among all classes, and [illegible] Riverside just south of East Portland [illegible] been established. The site selected [illegible] ing a little over a mile south of the [illegible] shaped like the letter H one side of which [illegible] length borders on the river.

From this portion of the homestead [illegible] the above the other prong of the H [illegible] forty or fifty feet above the river, [illegible] view of Portland, East Portland, the [illegible] the Willamette river for several miles. [illegible] [illegible] and is partly covered with [illegible] tract of land just wide enough [illegible] with an avenue between them, [illegible] of the H [illegible] has already been [illegible] [illegible] last tract of land is [illegible] valley [illegible] under a high state of [illegible] [illegible] length runs a [illegible] as crystal. With a hydraulic ram the Association propose to have water [illegible] to every portion of the home[illegible].

Another Last Ditch.

[From the Missouri Democrat]

While the negroes in all parts of the country are justly jubilant over their new political birth, and are quietly preparing to exercise the rights of citizenship with which they are now fully invested, it appears that some doughty Democrats are not quite willing to give up the contest yet. We adverted a few days since to the action of the county clerks in California who have refused to enroll colored men as voters, and who are sustained in their course by the Democratic members of the Legislature of that State. And now we learn that at a city election held a few days since in Circleville, Ohio, the Democratic judges in control of the polls refused to receive the votes of colored men on the ground that the ratification of the Fifteenth Amendment was not yet decided to be legal.

These sporadic outbursts of Democratic malignity are really amusing. The earnestness of the old lady who persisted in trying to sweep the Atlantic ocean from her back yard with a hand broom, was nothing compared with the earnestness of the Democratic party. Its vitality is something curious and fearful to behold. It reminds us of some species of verminous reptiles which, after they are cut in two and hacked in pieces, still kick and twitch and wriggle with their multitudinous legs as violently as ever. Think of it; what noble devotion to principle is exhibited by these California clerks and Buckeye Bourbons. They are determined to support the the "time honored principles" to the last. They intend to prove that the adage "revolutions never go backwards" is a lie or a mistake. They are wiser than we; they look higher and see further. They see that the times are out of joint, that humanity is progressing the wrong way, that the Federal government has made a great mistake, and that the American people do not know their own minds. Therefore they propose to rectify everything by refusing to carry out the Fifteenth Amendment. Happy California, thrice happy Circleville, to possess such patriots. These are regular never-say-die Democrats. They will never surrender so long as there is a shot in the locker. Their names should be preserved and handed down to posterity as men who were willing to save their country from the terrible blunder of dealing out equal and exact justice to all men, and of establishing universal liberty.

It will be interesting to note the result of such fatuous proceedings. Possibly the Democratic party, already so beloved by the colored voters, may by this course become still more endeared to them. There are about 800 negro voters in California, a good many thousand in Ohio, and over eight hundred thousand in the Union. What a remarkable thing it would be if the Democratic party should gain this whole vote by keeping up the fight against the colored people. We shall see.

The End of Repudiation

[From the Chicago Republican April 15.]

If we may be permitted for once to use a very forcible bit of rural slang, repudiation is "petering out" with delightful rapidity. Even at the West, where it was strongest, it is now at the last gasp. There was a time when the attitude of Ohio on this vital question gave no little uneasiness to thoughtful and sagacious men both in public and private life. But the brief delirium passed away as quickly as it came. The only repudiation now in vogue in Ohio is the repudiation of "Young Greenbacks" and his pernicious heresy.

In the Tenth Congressional District the Democrats recently put up a very able and popular man by the name of Hill. Mr. Peck, the Republican candidate, beat him by twenty-seven hundred votes. The Cincinnati Enquirer, unimpeachable Democratic authority, explains this overwhelming defeat of the excellent Hill by the fact that the convention which nominated him passed a resolution to the effect that the bonded debt ought not to be paid.

Just after the close of the war, President Woolsey, of Yale College, expressed the opinion in his lecture-room that the country had a greater danger to face than the one which it had just escaped, and added impressively, that the word "repudiation" had more peril in it than the word "secession." He was both right and wrong. He was right in predicting the birth of a repudiating party, and he did not overestimate in the least the evils which would result in the success of that party. He was wrong in underestimating the sterling honesty of the American people, and in not taking into account the rapid increase of the national wealth. Whatever danger there was at any time is now safely passed. The American Republic has known how to preserve its territorial integrity without sacrificing its honor. Its bonds have reached and passed par. Its credit abroad is daily becoming better. Mr. Boutwell's confidence that it will be easy to fund the debt at a reduced rate of interest, is shared by such eminent foreign financiers as Bowles, Brothers & Co., of Paris. We translate from one of their recent circulars:

"Already the most sagacious and richest banks in England and on the continent are beginning to loan or accept on the Federal bonds. Their example is certain to be rapidly followed, and the public will soon learn to appreciate at their just value the securities of a State which, while offering every advantage to capitalists now offered by France, England, or Russia, is removed by its geographical position beyond the sphere of European convulsions."

Alfred G. Townsend thus piquantly pictures a young Texas Congressman:

Conner is a blue-eyed boy of genius from Indiana, scarcely up to the constitutional age of a Congressman, with a smooth face of molten brass, high-cheek bones, sandy white hair, and a look where desperation, vanity, and impudence appear in three equal parts. Altogether a green Indiana boy, who went into the army, was celebrated for his precocious ferocity, became the pet of those ravenous Texans, who were delighted to see that the North could beat them in their own specialities, and sent him to Congress with the delight of a tribe of Indians sending a live panther to their Great Father.

The Canadian papers have a theory, which is not so very bad, that the current rumors of a Fenian raid are started by the hired enemies of the Dominion in order to divert attention from the Red River. They assert that the Fenian themselves are co-operating with the Red River insurgents, and hope by threats of another raid to prevent the departure of troops to the support of Governor McDougall. If this be true, the device seems to have succeeded; for it is stated that the warriors of the Dominion are to be sent to the New York and Vermont border. Meanwhile the Fenian movements continue, though, their objective point is as uncertain as ever.

Immigration to all parts of the West is extremely brisk this season. Great numbers are leaving Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana, in search of new fields to locate, and the movement of the American population is even greater than the foreign arrivals. The extension of new lines of railroad, opening up vast tracts of new lands and the depression in business, is one of the great inducing causes. The "great American desert" of which we formerly heard so much, is like the mirage on the plains—it recedes as population advances, and has not yet been overtaken.

The colored people of Louisville, Ky., are exhibiting signs of remarkable thrift. During the month of March, over seventy colored depositors opened accounts with the bank of the "Freedmen's Saving and Trust Company," and have deposited over $25,000. With the ballot in their hands, and their savings in bank, they will add to the political strength and to the productive powers of the add to the political stength and to productive country more than wasdreamed of in the ancient days of Judge Taney.

The Cleveland Leader says:

"When the women conventions shall be purged of feminine men who wear ringlets and part their hair in the middle, and speak in a falsetto voice, and of masculine women who don trousers, crop their hair short and talk slang in deep bass, they will command more respect." Well, "not to put too fine a point upon it," we should say that when the said conventions are thus purged there will be no such conventions at all. That's "where they live."

The First American Flag.—At a meeting of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, Mr. Wm. J. Canby read a paper on "The First Star Spangled Banner Made in America, and Who Made it." He discovered, in tracing the history of this national emblem, that the first instances when the Stars and Stripes were unfurled was at the siege of Fort Schuyler, August 17, 1777, and upon an occasion just about one year prior to that time. The brig Nancy was chartered by the Continental Congress to procure military stores in the West Indies, during the latter part of 1775. While at Porto Rico, in July of the ensuing year, the information came that the colonies had declared their independence, and with this information came a description of the flag that had been accepted as a national banner. A young man, Captain Thomas Mandenville, set to work to make one, and successfully accomplished it. The flag was unfurled, and saluted with thirteen guns. When the brig Nancy was on her return voyage she was hemmed in by British vessels off Cape May. Her officers succeeded in removing all the munitions to the shore and when the last boat put off, a young man in it, John Hancock, jumped into the sea, swam to the vessel, ran up the shrouds of the mast, and securing the flag, brought it triumphantly to the shore, through a hot fire from the British man of war.

The first American flag, however, according to the design and approval of Congress, was made by Mrs. Elizabeth Ross. Three of her daughters still live in our vicinity to confirm, this founding their belief, not upon what they saw, for it was many years before they were born, but what their mother had often told them. A niece of this lady, Mrs. Margaret Boggs, aged 95 years, now lives in Germantown, and is conversant with the fact. The fact it not generally known that to Philadelphia not only belongs the honor of flinging the first star-spangled banner to the breeze, but to a Philadelphia lady belongs the honor of having made it.

The house in which it was made still stands—No. 239 Arch street (the old number being 89)—the last of an old row. It is related that when Congress had decided upon the design, Colonel George Ross and General Washington visited Mrs. Ross and asked her to make it. She said, "I don't know whether I can, but I will try," and directly suggested to the gentlemen that the design was wrong, in that the stars were six-cornered, and not five-cornered, as they should be. This was corrected, she made the flag, Congress accepted it, and for half a dozen years the lady furnished the Government with all its national flags, having, of course, a large assistance. This lady was also the wife of Claypole; one of the lineal descendants of Oliver Cromwell.

The Democratic papers oppose bitterly the bill recently introduced into Congress providing for free schools in all the States. Education of the masses is necessary to the prosperity and perpetuation of popular government, but it is also incompatible with the supremacy of the Democratic party. Hinc illæ lacrymæ. It is doubtless unfortunate that all the States are not sufficiently in accord with the age to maintain a public school system themselves, and that the General Government is obliged, therefore, to either institute a national system or incur the risk of ultimate disintegration through the utter ignorance of the suffragans in one-third of the Union. The bill proposed, however, is not intended to disturb the free school system now established in most of the States, such States being excepted from its operation. Its effect, therefore, will be simply to shed a flood of much needed light in the States which were in rebellion, and in a few others which might almost as well have been.

A scientific expedition to Brazil has been organized by the Cornell University. The geologist of the party will be Prof. C. F. Hartt, the assistant of Agassiz in the latter's exploration of the Amazon region. The botanist is to be Prof. A. N. Prentiss. A number of students attached to the College of Natural Science in the Institution will take part in the expedition, the chief object of which is to make collections for the University museums. With the view of affording the explorers every possible facility, instruction in the Portuguese language has been given, during the past term, to such members of the University as intend to accompany the party. The expedition will sail at the close of the spring term, and will spend some four months in Brazil, passing through the extensive region lying between Rio Janeiro and the Amazon collecting botanical, geological, and zoological specimens. The Brazilian Government has promised its aid and furtherance, in every possible way, to the expedition.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Portland, Wednesday, May 4, 1870.

No gold quotations to-day.

Legal Tenders steady at 87¼c.

Trade very quiet to-day, no department showing anything like activity. It has now been several days since business has shown anything like the healthy activity seen during nearly the entire month of April; yet merchants seem to be as confident as at any time that the aggregate for the spring and summer trade will be wholly satisfactory. We have no changes in quotations to note to-day.

Flour is coming down the river a little more freely and the same may be said of bacon; but the entire receipts of produce are still inconsiderable compared with last month. The steamer to sail on Friday, like her predecessor, will go away with little more than half a load. There has been no time within the last two years when shipments were so light as now. As the supplies in the country cannot now be large, the freighting business must be for two or three months, quite unremunerative.

Regarding matters in the interior, we have the following paragraphs:

The Eugene Guard says: Trade is improving. Money seems to be a little easier, though complaints are still too frequent, owing to the difficulty of collecting old accounts. The credit system has heretofore been too much in vogue with our traders, and this system will have to be corrected to some extent, before business can be transacted on a safe basis. The steamer Echo arrived at our landing last Saturday, bringing a considerable amount of freight for our merchants, and returned with a large freight of produce from our landing. The boating season will soon be at an end on this part of the river, and produce is being rapidly sent forward. Bacon is still in good demand; lard has advanced, with but little in the market. There is no movement in grain.

The subjoined two paragraphs are from the Dalles Mountaineer:

"Mr. Isaac Violett, from the North Fork of the John Day river called on us yesterday. He reports everything in that section of country as being in a flourishing condition. New settlers are arriving there daily. The weather during the past winter was excellent and the cattle have wintered through it in good condition. The trail, by way of Leonard's Bridge, is in excellent condition, the snow having all [melte]d off sometime ago, leaving it perfectly dry. Mr. Violett met four families going in as he came out.

"We have news from Grant county this week. The miners in all the camps are hard at work hydraulicing and ground sluicing their claims while water is abundant, which is the case at present. The roads between Dalles City and Canyon City are in a passable condition, but rough, probably something better than ever before this time of the year. The road from Canyon City to Snake river is not open yet, but will be in a few weeks. The crops of all kinds and cattle and horses are doing well. Everything indicates a prosperous year for the miner, stock raiser, farmer and merchant. Oats are selling at 2½ cents, barley at 2 cents.

Republican Platform.

Adopted by the Republican Territorial Convention at Vancouver, April 21st, 1870

Resolved, That the Republicans of Washington Territory are in full accord with the great Republican party of the Nation the party that maintained and carried the Government through the most powerful and gigantic rebellion known in history, notwithstanding the aid and assistance rendered by enemies abroad and traitors at home, the party that successfully triumphed over the arms of the rebels at the South, that removed the foul blot from the national escutcheon that disgraced us in the eyes of the civilized world; that sustained our financial credit beyond the hopes of the most sanguine that has shown a magnanimity and forbearance to the vanquished that challenges the admiration of mankind, and that ever true to the best interests of the people, has opened a highway for the interchange of products of the Eastern and Western portions of the continent, that will long be marked as one of the wonders of the age.

Resolved, That we regard the administration of President Grant as eminently successful, that the difficult questions which were presented by the anomalous condition of eleven States at the close of the rebellion, have been settled in accordance with the soundest principles of justice and political economy, and we confidently look for a speedy, harmonious and perfect restoration of the constitutional relations between all the States and the General Government.

Resolved, That the management of the finances by the Legislative and Executive branches of the Government by the present Administration, has been wise, prudent and careful, and we refer with pride and pleasure to the fact that no financial convulsions have occurred that the credit of the Government has been sustained, and that the relative value of specie and paper currency has approximated as rapidly as was consistent with the safety of our commercial and financial affairs.

Resolved, That the bold and unflinching position assumed by the Administration in regard to the Alabama claims has already produced the most salutary results, which are evidenced not only by the manifest desire of Great Britain to re open negotiations but by a willingness to conduct them in conformity with recognized principles of international law.

Resolved, That the National and Territorial Governments should be conducted in all their branches with the most rigid economy, that the necessaries of life should, as far as practicable, be exempt from direct or indirect taxation; and that we are opposed to repudiation in any form, believing that the honor of the nation is of more importance than any pecuniary consideration.

Resolved, That we earnestly urge upon the National Government the speedy settlement of our rights to the San Juan and other Islands lying between the Canal De Haro and Rosario Straits, and the acknowledgement by Great Britain of our just claims thereto; and the importance of opening negotiations for the purpose of securing the annexation of British Columbia to the United States.

Resolved, That the North Pacific Railroad and its branches is a work of national importance; hence we call upon the General Government for the most liberal aid and assistance to secure its early construction and completion.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private diseases his special study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of the charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequences of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove which is prefer to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering from any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the stored responsibility resting upon them nor delay obtaining immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders, who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen, and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory, and you will not find their Medical Institutes in it, but you will find their former occupations in it. Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1863. The only way to avoid imposition is to make enquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians, in eight cases out of ten, are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patient's letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, (Private Entrance on Commercial) San Francisco. Post Office Box 252

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 252 ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.
